SYNOPSIS

The success of the first ultramarathon in 2016, where Juan Manuel, an ultrarunner from Spain, decided to run 170KMs alone, encouraged him to mobilise others like him who were passionate about running and social change.

In the second edition, it was proposed to mobilise 40 runners from Spain, in 10 teams of 4 people, to travel to Anantapur. They would have the opportunity to visit RDT's main office in Anantapur and run an ultramarathon in relay. For this edition, the goal was collectively decided to be greater.
